

The Commission for Energy Regulation (CER) is holding an open information session on Monday 30th May 2011 at 10.45am in The Clarion Hotel, IFSC, Dublin.

The aim of this information session will be to discuss the contents of the following reports relating to electricity smart metering which were published by the CER on 16th May 2011 (www.cer.ie).

- Customer behaviour trials findings report (CER11/080a)
- Technology trials findings report (CER 11/080b)
- Cost-benefit analysis report (CER 11/080c)

In order to assist interested parties in understanding the vast and diverse content of these three reports this session will give an overview of the key findings in the reports and will also give interested parties the opportunity to ask questions on the content of the reports.

The CER invites all interested parties to attend this FREE event. To register, please contact Gary Martin (gmartin@cer.ie).
