

I a rgi member my number is 319 .I think rgii running of safety in gas industry is nothing short of a disgrace has non registered installer go unchecked an under cut registered installers .Not what we were told when we sign up for this scheme .point 2 inspections carried out by rgii are totally useless as the inspectors are not properly trained and don,t carry out full inspection .Point 3 why is a non profit company ie rgii showing a balance of 1.2 million this means that they are overcharge members? To have this balance.Point4 under the current scheme where asked to redo our training at a high cost to installers and non of the above change be nothing has changed whit in the gas industry to justify this arrangement other than to profit the training centres .You as the governing body have been a sleep on the job it's now time to step up to the mark and do your job? Point 5 the scheme put forward by aphci will be a lot fairer on the lawful installer and will remove illegal installers . Which is why the original scheme was set up for .So i am apposed to the current scheme remaining in place as it is not fit for purpose.

YOURS FAITHFULLY
PAUL. IRWIN