

Sir/Madam,

Ease of access to the Grid for small producers is a very important issue.

To date it has been extremely difficult for individuals to access viable grid connections when developing a small scale production system.

It can be done in other countries, why not here, and help reduce our C footprint?

I believe that there are many, rural dwellers especially, who would develop their own energy production systems – photovoltaics, wind turbines etc. if any form of grid access was made easier.

Michael

Michael Gunn